Red 'Underground' Is Australian Plan

Secret Party Funds, Lists and Headquarters Reported by Probe

By George McCadden

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 12.—(BUP)—Labor government investigators said today the Australian Communist Party has made plans to go underground when it is outlawed by the newly elected free enterprise government early next year.

The central party of Prime Minister Robert Menzies, and the Country party of A. W. Fadden, which together will control the 22-member legislature, are pledged to outlaw the Communist party and "organize for the destruction of the Communist Party."

Although several seats still are doubtful, the probable distribution of seats in the new house of representatives will be 73 for the Liberal-Country party coalition and 47 for Labor.

Investigations said the Communist party has hidden secret party funds and membership lists and has established a new secret headquarters in preparation for going underground. The Communist National Headquarters, Marx House, located in the Northwest Territory, recently was sold.

The new government's pledge to outlaw Communism was defied by Communist party president R. Dixon. "We will carry on, whether it be in conditions of legality or illegality," Dixon said.

The two victorious parties also have pledged that "no member of the Communist party shall be employed by the public service or in a registered trade union."

Meanwhile, with the threat of the Labor government's nationalization of banks removed, the stock exchange opened on a note of optimism. Numerous stocks went up.

Trial Underway For Oct. 11 Slaying Of Chinese Gardener

Joseph Gilbert, Edmonton laborer, and Hong Suoy Chin, city Chinese today stood in supreme court here to face trial for the Oct. 6 root-cellar slaying of Chinese market gardener Leon Chu, widely known as Sam Koo.

At the outset defense counsel for Gilbert, W. G. K. Bloor applied to Mr. Justice C. C. McLaughlin for a verdict of trial of the two, who are jointly charged with the murder.

The request was granted and Chin was led out of the crowded courtroom.

The crown was represented by Crown Prosecutor J. W. Shortwood, who said evidence so far as the accused were concerned would be a series of conversations between Gilbert and his former employer, Gerald E. Bloor.

Mr. Shortwood said on Tuesday, Oct. 11 at about 8:30 p.m. Bloor met Gilbert "not altogether by chance" at the south side Low Level Bridge, and as a result of conversations at this point, Bloor proceeded to city detective.

Crash Probe

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—(CP)—The Royal Canadian Air Force ordered an investigation today into the crash of a two-engine military transport yesterday on an island in Lake Ontario, killing all four crewmen aboard.

Other victims were identified as Flying Officer Leo V. Papp, 25, of Ottawa, co-pilot; LAC Allan MacIntosh, 26, Trenton, and LAC William G. Neeson, 24, Trenton.

Webster was a member of the Royal Air Force. He came to Canada and took over the flying school here in February as part of an RCAF-RAF exchange program.

Blizzards Hit In Wide Area

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(UPI)—A winter storm today rolled eastward across the midwest on a 1,000-mile front, bringing blizzard conditions to the Upper Great Lakes region, and leaving 51 persons dead from tornadoes, snow slides and accidents on icy highways.

Nine persons were killed and scores injured by twisters which skipped across Missouri and Arkansas.

At least 42 other deaths in more than a dozen states were blamed on the storm. Most of these were traffic fatalities resulting from icy highways, drizzle, fog and other motoring hazards.

A huge snow and rock slide tore down on top of a car in Spanish Fork Canyon in Utah, killing one person and injuring three others.

The Chicago weather bureau ordered storm warnings over the Great Lakes as a blizzard howled across the Dakotas and the Red River Valley into Minnesota.

Riding on 60-mile-an-hour winds, the snowstorm blocked all trunk highways in northwestern Minnesota.

Snow squalls were predicted for Wisconsin, Iowa and Michigan, with flurries extending southward to Missouri, Illinois and Indiana.

SEASONAL LOWS

Weather forecasts said the storm was diminishing as it moved south and east, and only the extreme north-central part of the country would be lashed by the blizzard which hurled the Rockies yesterday.

However, a cold wave in the wake of the storm has sent the mercury to new seasonal lows.

In Wisconsin, where the temperature hit an all-time Dec. 11 high of 51 degrees in Milwaukee yesterday, the cold wave was expected to bring readings of 15 below zero tonight. Michigan and Iowa expected to be below zero.

OTHERS IN PATH

The cold wave will hit Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee tonight, forecasters said, and will extend to the Atlantic seaboard and the Gulf states by tomorrow.

There will always be a good demand for well-broken working horses in Canada, Secretary Hardy Salter of the Canadian Percheron Breeders' Association, told Alberta horse breeders today.

NO ACTION ON STUDIES

No immediate action will be taken by university authorities following student complaints that courses have become too heavy, Dr. Walter H. Johns, assistant to the president said today.

Last week the Students Council stated courses on the campus have become so stiff that students have no time for other activities.

Dr. Johns said the matter has not been studied by university authorities. No action can be taken, he said, until the question has been fully discussed by the faculty council.

Assessors To Be Hired

At least five professional assessors will be added to the staff of the Alberta municipal affairs department's assessment branch this year, Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister, said today.

Services of assessors are made available to towns, villages and rural areas by the department, so that assessments in all areas can be made on a similar basis, Mr. Gerhart said.

The plan was instituted following the last legislative session and is proving "very popular," according to the minister. New staff members are being added to handle the increasing assessment work.

Alberta is the first government on the continent to make services of professional assessors available to municipal areas, Mr. Gerhart said.

Television Extravagance

Something like ten million Canadians will agree emphatically with Colonel George Drew that the contemplated plan expenditure of $4,000,000 to give Montreal and Toronto households television is a bare-faced theft from the rest of the Canadian people.

If Canadians are going to have television, it should be provided, as in the United States, by private enterprise.

The Canadian government, through the CBC, has no more right to go into the television business than it would have to go into the haberdashery business.

There is no intrinsic difference between the sale of television sets and the sale of fox and hen.

It is on record that a number of private companies have wished to establish television broadcasting in Eastern Canada. But the government has thrown every obstacle in the way.

And now it comes out with the preposterous proposal that the people of all Canada be taxed to the extent of $4,000,000 to provide television facilities for Toronto and Montreal.

It is true that the government plan contemplates an eventual service for the entire country. Before 1955, it proposes to spend between $14,000,000 and $15,000,000 for this purpose.

Television sets, it is expected, will be subject to a tax of $10 a year.

All this expenditure should come out of private enterprise. It is absurd that the Canadian people should pay tribute to the CBC for television programs which, if the radio system constitutes a precedent, will also be a source of advertising revenue.

United States broadcasting of all kinds is supported entirely by commercial revenue. There is no reason why Canadian broadcasting, including television, should not be entirely supported in the same way.

The CBC has got radio in Canada in an involuntary position. The situation will not be relieved by setting out to make exactly the same mistakes in television as have been made in radio with terrific outlay of the taxpayer's money.

Sale of Weapons Should Be Stopped

The same deadly spring knives which, in the hands of young hoodlums, are causing such a reign of terror in Vancouver, are being carried by dozens of juvenile thugs in Edmonton.

There is no reason on earth why the sale of these lethal weapons should not be peremptorily stopped.

The knife opens, for quick action, with the pressing of a button. It is said that the youths have a trick manipulating the spring so that the action is faster.

Such a knife has few other purposes than those of assault. For surely the ordinary pull-open jack-knife is fast enough for any innocent purpose.

They have not been employed for innocent purposes in Vancouver.

They are flourishing on the slightest excuse. One group of teen-agers terrorized a group of school children, threatening to slit their throats.

It is only by the mercy of heaven that somebody has not already been killed with them.

These are exactly the type of knives sold to gangs in Edmonton where, it is estimated, up to 200 have already been sold and are being carried by the youths who are at fights in drug dens.

Edmonton may not have proper machinery for dealing with these juvenile delinquents. We must have better machinery until some type of a Bortol machine is established.

But the sale of these weapons at least can be forbidden. And a concerted effort can be made to confiscate them whenever they are carried.

If this is not done, Edmonton is going to have a juvenile gang killing on its hands.

It is not a pretty picture.

The government is peculiarly sensitive with regard to its program of nationalization because nationalization, with the consequent crushing of free enterprise, is the very essence of Socialism.

And it is conceivable that should the trend of events indicate a close adventure at the polls, the more fanatic members of the party might try anything to perpetuate their power.

It is a side of Socialism that should be borne in mind whenever that tarnishing philosophy is preached.

Socialism, in its fundamentals, is a denial of human freedom because it sets up the state as an all embracing power of greater importance to the individual.

It is but a step from this philosophical concept to the perversion of law to illegal opposition to the party.

Rental Control

Editor, Bulletin—I really a laugh to read the poor landlord is so badly treated in Edmonton. Please is, me show you how I am treated as a tenant.

In 1930 I was paying $700 per month for the room I still occupy and today I pay $200 for the same room and I still keep my own clean house.

I was making $700 per month then less $200 income tax and unemployment insurance.

Alberta's Rental Plan Is Approved

Premier Manning took his time to announce the government's decision regarding rent control, but the time was well spent.

Alberta's proposed method for dealing with this issue does appear to be a very promising one of dealing with this whole issue.

There is no need for rent control except in so far as tenants require protection from unjust landlords. Apart from this, controls are a detriment and they sooner they end the better.

The difficulty with blanket controls is that, no matter what they are, someone is treated unjustly.

If rents are fixed too high, the tenants are hurt. If rents are fixed too low, landlords are victimized.

As pointed out in an earlier column, this situation is aggravated by the fact that controls only apply to a portion of the housing and this has resulted in further unfairness.

Now in Mr. Manning's plan is that it can protect those who are entitled to protection without at the same time injuring anyone else.

Officials Must Use Judgment

By setting up a rental "grievance" board, the proposed Alberta regulations and legislation will be flexible enough to deal with individual cases on their merits.

The plan possesses the further advantage that, as soon as a landlord housing is available, a semblance of control will automatically be restored.

The weakness of the plan lies, of course, in the very flexibility which is a resulting disaster, which must be given to this grievance board. That means the success of the plan will depend to a considerable extent upon the good judgment and common sense of the people selected to form the "grievance" board.

Now I can maintain that either the tenants or the landlords have been always in the right.

There are landlords who were presented repeatedly for decades the infractions of the regulations, landlords who deliberately tried to victimize tenants.

There were landlords who gouged tenants at every turn and who attempted to collect rents that were, at times, fantastic.

Yet there were also tenants who took unfair advantage of the fact that these landlords paid far less than the premises were worth. They abused and damaged the homes.

Blanket regulations cannot differentiate between the conscientious landlords and those who take unfair advantage of conditions and circumstances. However, a board possessing discretionary powers can do so. Thus it should be possible to rent the good and necessary features of the controls while discarding the defects.

Blanket regulations were the only solution during the war period, but now the substitution of this other method should be a marked improvement.

Will Adjudicate For Both Sides

If a tenant and landlord can agree, that is the best. An announcement suggests, there is no longer any need to interfere. If they cannot agree, then the board can intervene.

If it can be shown that the landlord is a profiteer and that less than the charges needed to compensate the owner, that fact will be ascertained and a proper adjustment should be made.

If a tenant is shunning his tenancy, it is not a matter of any protection and the landlord should be free to put him out.

But in those cases where a good tenant is paying a reasonable rent, but where a landlord is still much, if not more, than he should be controlled and this board should be well able to do so.

The persons who will be charged with making these decisions will be a new unit, not this work, their proposal, not only has every reason to succeed, but it is a very real solution to this difficult problem.

But if the government can handle these infractions of the regulations, landlords who deliberately tried to victimize tenants.

There were landlords who gouged tenants at every turn and who attempted to collect rents that were, at times, fantastic.

Yet there were also tenants who took unfair advantage of the fact that these landlords paid far less than the premises were worth. They abused and damaged the homes.

Here's a Good Point In 'Tip-Off' Bidding

By William E. McKenney
I decided to take a couple of weeks off to get a little rest, so I went down to Atlantic City. Of course I could not stay away from the weekly duplicate game which is run by Mrs. Helene Kelly at the Kentucky Hotel. As I kibitzed from table to table I came across six interesting hands, which make up my articles for this week. Here is the first one, bringing out an Interesting point to cue bidding. When South opens the bidding with one spade, North has a choice of several bids. He can bid three hearts, or only two hearts, hoping to show the strength of his hand later. But I think the best bid is three spades. This is not only a game demand bid, but a slam try also.

Most players today use the jump from one spade to three spades as a stronger bid than the jump to four spades over a one spade bid. The latter bid simply shows a game hand.

East's bid of four diamonds only helps the opponents. South's partner has shown a very strong hand and he is justified in going to four spades. At this point North can make one bid of five diamonds. Now let us look at South's hand. His partner has made a jump bid in three spades and later a cue bid showing no losers in diamonds. His bidding also indicates that he must have at least five spades to the ace.

He certainly should have the king and queen of hearts, or the king and queen of clubs. . . that the king and queen of hearts and is the least North can have for

Necessity To Export Sparks Farm Parley

By Harold Morrison

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Canada's biggest annual food talks opened here today amid uncertainty about future grain, bacon and dairy markets.

Agriculture ministers from four provinces and officers of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture representing some 400,000 farmers started a three-day battle with federal agricultural experts to discuss some of the weightiest farm problems in the post-war era.

MUST FIND MARKETS

This basic industry still is in a relatively buoyant position. Helping to a great extent is the fact that Canadians are buying more food than ever and farm revenue this year is expected to hit new-record levels.

The threat comes from possible loss of the United Kingdom market which Canada has built during the last quarter century. Caught in the dollar crisis, the United Kingdom has been forced to reduce purchases from dollar countries, including Canada. This fact looms large in the three-day conference.

With fewer dollars available, the U.K. is expected next year to cut food purchases—except wheat—by half. Where Canada shipped $72,000,000 worth of non-cereal food-stuffs in 1949 to the United Kingdom.

There also were contracts for about $200,000 worth of salmon, $100,000 worth of fruit pulp and $100,000 worth of apples.

Canada is in the process of filling the wheat contract. Shipments will be completed by next July. She already has shipped the full $0,000,000 pounds of cheese and meat of the U.S. Because of short supply only $0,000,000 pounds of bacon will be shipped. The fruit pulp has been sold and so has most of the salmon and apples.

New Era of Peace Is Prayer of Pope

Hopes Holy Year to Begin Time Of Justice, Holiness, Happiness

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 12.—(UPI)—Pope Pius XII today expressed the hope that the 1950 church holy year would bring a new era of justice, holiness and happiness to the world.

He spoke in Latin to five cardinals who gathered at a solemn consistory in the long consistory hall of the Vatican Palace for an hour-long ceremony.

He also named three papal legates who will open the holy doors of St. Peter's Basilica in Rome to signal the start of the holy year on Christmas eve. He said he himself would open the holy doors of St. Peter's Basilica in keeping with holy tradition.

The legates named were Eugenio Cardinal Tisserant, 65, Clemente Cardinal Minelli, who will be 70 years old Christmas eve, and Alessandro Cardinal Votaw, 61.

The pope prayed that "during the course of the holy year there will arise for all the great human family a new era, more just, more holy and happier—and grant us finally that all the people, wounded and torn asunder by sin, may return united in citizenship to his celestial empire."

He ended the papal lecture with the faculty of blessing in his name the faithful who participate in the sacred rites. He also granted them power to grant the plenary indulgence—pardon for all punishment due to sin—to those who fulfilled the prescribed acts of devotion and piety.

Before he reaches Pittsburgh, the entire line of the Monongahela River is used for cooling purposes by the steel mills and other industries located along its banks.

He ended the papal lecture with the faculty of blessing in his name the faithful who participate in the sacred rites. He also granted them power to grant the plenary indulgence—pardon for all punishment due to sin—to those who fulfilled the prescribed acts of devotion and piety.

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD.—(AP)—Rugged is the word for film making in Australia.

This testimony comes from John O'Malley, a tall Australian who has just arrived here to seek his fortune. O'Malley is one of the performers in the film, "The Rugged" in the plains of Queensland.

"But it wasn't as bad as it sounds," he added. "I was out in the bush, which I like, and on a horse, which I like. They flew in movies twice a week and we had no particular worries. The only bother was wearing a beard for a year and a half."

Australian films cost anywhere from $10,000 all the way up to $200,000, which was the tab on "O'Riordan." Most of the pictures are made on location, since the largest studio has but one stage.

Low production costs only about two films a year. O'Malley said, so there are no actors who perform in pictures alone. Nor do they confine themselves to the stage.

"The big thing is radio," he declared, "but most actors take part in all kinds of things. He added that television has not progressed beyond the experimental stage."

Australians are good movie fans, but quite critical. Big United States favorites are Bob Hope, Alan Ladd, Humphrey Bogart.

American films are generally favored, but the best British films draw good business. The down under public is pretty well fed up with the brightly-colored fluffy musicals coming from here.

PACIFIC VETERANS O'Malley was originally a newspaper man in his native Sydney. He just about having "junk" lower to become an actor in 1938. He served army during the war and was part of a group isolated in Timor during the Japanese occupation.

'Deal' Charged In Purchase

By Virginia MacPherson

HOLLYWOOD.—(UPI)—Movie colony Romeos could take a few lessons from Bobby Driscoll, a 12-year-old boy who's just discovered girls. The way he loves 'em and leaves 'em makes slasies out of the big boys.

His name is a fast worker. He has, he'll tell you without a blush, had so many girls in the past few months he can't remember 'half their names.'

Errol Flynn's not the only actor who goes to Europe and finds romance. Bobby went to England to make "Treasure Island" for Walt Disney and cut a pretty wide swath with the lollipop set himself.

WORD TO THE WISE "I had love at first sight here when I met her," he said. "But one was my favorite. She wrote me too many letters. About an hour and a half."

"It takes a long time to write a letter. About an hour and a half. I guess. The minute she got it she'd answer right back."

"And there I was—owing another letter right away. So I just dropped her. There was a pretty girl there in London, anyway. Besides, she was a clown."

Bobby came home from London a week or so ago. And he is being true to his English sweetheart. He is, like fan, already found a new lady for this month. And it isn't one of the girls he left behind.

She's 15-year-old Kathy Beaumont, also under contract to Walt Disney. And that makes things real cozy.

"I'd never met her," Bobby said. "But I heard about her. And when I got home I had some of the boys introduce me. She's a blonde. She came over here from London a few years ago and she has a British accent."

"Romeo," Driscoll brought her, there is nothing wrong with his 12-year-old friend. This Kathy is a beauty with honey-colored curls and big blue eyes.

For fan, they said, they play Canada. And if you think that's too grown-up for the younger generation, just know how much you know. This is the age of the 'let's'.

Pipeline Bills Point New Legislation Need

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Canada's legislation covering the establishment of oil and gas-pipe lines may be revised as a result of what occurred at the first session of the 21st parliament, which ended Saturday.

At that session, two companies—Alberta Natural Gas and Prairie Transmission Limited—were incorporated. They planned to build pipe lines from the Alberta oil and gas fields to the northwestern United States and British Columbia.

The bills were blocked every time they came up to be read in the order paper when the session ended. Sponsored by private members, the measures came up alternately on Tuesday and Friday nights for one hour. They were discussed 13 times and were "talked out" in the hour devoted to private bills.

The government, taking the attitude that the majority of members should have an opportunity to decide whether or not a company should be incorporated, went to the aid of what Prime Minister St. Laurent and Trade Minister Howe termed a "billboard" by a few members.

However, the move was unsuccessful. Opponents to incorporation of the companies resorted to amendments and other means to keep a vote from being taken on the measures themselves.

The opposition was based on the fact that the companies in advertising that they planned to apply for incorporation disclosed that their pipe lines would be built through United States territory.

They would serve Seattle, Portland and other United States points before Vancouver, New Westminster and other British Columbia points.

Some Liberal members joined with Progressive Conservatives, CCF and Social Credit members in urging that the companies be required to follow the all-Canadian route and serve Canadian points before those in the United States.

Mr. Howe said he agreed that Canadian points should be served first, but under present legislation it was up to the board of Transport Commissioners to decide the route the pipe lines should follow.

It is believed that an amendment to the General Pipeline Act may be brought in to compel companies seeking incorporation to build pipelines to include in the bill details of the route to be covered by pipelines.

Some Liberal members joined with Progressive Conservatives, CCF and Social Credit members in urging that the companies be required to follow the all-Canadian route and serve Canadian points before those in the United States.

Special Idea For Shut-In Xmas Tree

By Bea Thrifty

Thinking tunes of these Christmas-time along the song of 11-more-shopping-days-'til the happy holiday. Just eleven short days to finish your home decorations, baking, buying, wrapping, mailing, . . . and eleven short days to cover the cold hard ground with a comforting blanket of snow.

Glittering, feather snow completes the Yuletide picture. . . . Come, come weatherman . . . enough of this foolishness.

Do you have a shut-in on your holiday-party list?

I do. And mine's a tucked-in shut-in. Seems a crying shame the won't be able to enjoy the family Christmas tree.

There's an idea dawning about in the confusion of my meagre mind having a special little tree tucked up fancy just for my favorite shut-in.

Here's the strategy: Fasten a small pinpoint flower holder to the centre of a brightly ringed tree with plasticine, modelling clay or something. Slice a well-shaped evergreen branch to the holder. Cover holder with cotton and spiky artificial snow. Add tinsel to branch.

Now fill tray with amusing gifts . . . a box of color-crayons and paint box, dime-store toys . . . if shut-in is a youngster.

Favorite cartoon book, shellcraft kit and instructions, fabric-painting kit . . . for an adult.

Lots of bright ribbons, gay little verses . . . to show the season's sentiment and add the finishing touches of care and thoughtfulness.

Young couple living in the corner house has three small TVs . . . very active small fry at that. And they're a bit worried about the Christmas problem. Last year two-year-old Billy needed constant watching.

He loved pulling at the ornaments. The poor little tyke frightened himself half to death when he finally upset the whole affair.

Experienced grandmother suggests placing the tree inside a playpen. This way tree, ornaments and gifts will be fenced in . . . away from little fingers.

And think how the fencing in will dramatize the pretty Christmas bangles.

For you luckies who have an open fireplace in your happy home, here's a traditional twist you'll remember and use forever more.

Everyone loves to see flames of a million hues flickering in fantasy from the Yuletide logs.

There's a simple remedy you can do. Melt old wax candles, add rock salt and blueberries; harden in fluted cupcake cases. You could now when you throw another log on the fire, add a couple of little cups of the treated wax. Result is blue, golden, royal purple, sea green flames . . . lovely to look at . . . easy to dream by.

I promised a repeat on the individual candle orange cups filled with fruit cake. . . . here you are:

CANDIED ORANGE SHELLS
4 thick-skinned oranges (large)
2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup white corn syrup
1 cup water.

Cut oranges in half crosswise. With teaspoon, scoop out pulp; save pulp for breakfast. In enough boiling water to cover, cook shells until tender—about 15 min. Cook sugar, syrup, and water until small amount of mixture dripped in water forms soft ball.

Add shells; cook about 30 min., turning often. Remove shells; place cut side down, to cool and drain well.

Roll in granulated sugar to thicken cut inside and out. Fill with favorite candy or mixture; place on baking sheet and bake in slow oven for about 2 hours. . . . or until done. Glaze with syrup left from candying oranges.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS

Quarreling Pair of 70 Not Yet Too Old to Part

DEAR MISS DIX: My mother and father married young and soon found out that they cared nothing for each other, but in their day to get a divorce for whatever cause was a disgrace, so they have gone on living together, quarreling and hating each other worse every year.

Now they bitterly regret they did not part when they were young, but as they are 70 years old, they think it too late. What do you think?

A DAUGHTER

ANSWER: I think that they had better part, no matter how old they are. If they hate each other so much that their lives are embittered by it.

Surely they should have the few brief years that are left to them in peace in which to surge their souls of all the accumulated rage and evil thoughts of so many years. But can any human tragedy be

THE RELAXING EXERCISE typical of the cat, arching the back in a stretch, will make you feel as rested as a kitten.

WHY GROW OLD

Cat-Like Relaxation Aids Health, Charm

By Josephine Lowman

Yesterday I wrote about tenseness and how it robs a woman of health and charm.

A hurried woman is always hurried, and when you are tense, you put the center of your face downward and invert the whole of your glands.

Are you tired up in knots? If so, perhaps you should take a cat for a pet. I have been in a dither for some time now (after five cats) trying to decide whether these felines are wise or dumb. At first I thought they were plain parasites, loving you when you fed them and ignoring you when you didn't. However, my cat follows me about even after I have fed it, I hope because it likes me.

I have come to the conclusion that a cat is much wiser than you or I. He does not do anything or go any place he does not want to. If he can help it, they are smart!

It would be wonderful if we could find ourselves in the same situation and get away with it.

Today I am going to give you a cat exercise which is most relaxing. Kneel on both knees. Place your hands on the floor, shoulder width apart. Push up at the elbows back. Feel the stretch of the vertebrae. You have often seen a cat arch its back upward, do it slowly. Hold a few moments and slowly relax.

If you would like to have my actual exercise card stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 16 "Back Talk," to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

break for them the fetters they have not the courage to break themselves. It is situations like this that make divorce seem the higher morality.

However, husbands and wives who have each other and who still stick together get a morbid kick out of the misery they endure and their hatred becomes a sort of dark wine that stimulates them.

Therefore, if your parents part, the chances are that they will be even more unhappy than they are at present. They will miss having some one to quarrel with, some one to say cruel and cutting things to.

And, perhaps they will find that what they thought was hate was, after all, a strange and perverted love, for hate and love are very close together.

LIVES POISONED

And thinking of lives poisoned by hate for years and years, from youth to age. Of a man and woman potential murderers in their secret souls, always hoping the death will

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Regular Allowance Is Education for Child

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

It is not the same from the viewpoint of teaching the use of money, to give a child an allowance, or to give him stray pennies from his pocketbook.

In both cases, he has money to spend, but there is a difference. From an allowance he learns management of a predictable sum, given at a predictable time each week.

From stray pennies he discovers the way to have money is to ask for it from anyone who has a pocketbook; and by so doing he becomes a beggar and not a manager since the sums are different each week.

Even the small child who cannot count above five, will learn something useful if he has five pennies once a week to spend. The doing out of these five pennies will illustrate to the child that the parent has respect for the power and value of money.

Being given an allowance helps the child to realize that as a member of the family he has the right and privilege to share in its income; in whatever way is commensurate with his ability to manage.

At first little can be done with the five pennies except to spend them. Work both from habit and experience for a child. For then he learns what can be done with money, how much things cost and when his allowance will run out. As he learns to manage five cents he will get more pennies and some of these will go into a penny bank so that he will have an interest in and an understanding of how to save.

As the child's skill in spending and saving increases, he will be entrusted with larger sums of money and given more responsibility for using them. But spending is what he learns first, then saving for a short-term objective, then a long-term one and finally investment and charity. They complete the picture of what all of us should know about the use of money.

The extra money which all children are sure to get for birthday and holidays should not go into the allowance and unbalance it, but should be put away for larger purchases than the allowance would cover.

Neither, it should be stressed, should children be given money for being good, or penalized by loss of their allowance for being bad.

Canada Urges U.S. To Revive War Pact

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Canada is pressing plans to try and get United States to revive a peacetime "Ryde-Park" agreement.

The old wartime agreement, signed in 1941 and now lapsed, was a deal whereby the U.S. bought big size suits in pressing plans to try and get United States to revive a peacetime "Ryde-Park" agreement.

The old wartime agreement, signed in 1941 and now lapsed, was a deal whereby the U.S. bought big size suits in pressing plans to try and get United States to revive a peacetime "Ryde-Park" agreement.

thought about the Ryde-Park deal new do not exist, the balance of payments problem still is as acute as ever.

Traditionally Canada always has bought more from the U.S. than she exported to that country and made up part of the payments from sales to the United Kingdom.

With U.S. dollar supplies low and future sales to that country likely to be small, the Canadian Government is at a loss as to how she can continue to buy her supplies from the U.S. and make payments in dollars.

In recent public addresses, trade minister Brown has said that the only way to solve this problem is for the U.S. to buy as much from Canada as Canada buys from the U.S.

In the worst United States disaster of 1946, a pre-drawn fire swept the Windsor hotel in Atlanta, Ga., killing over 120 people in December.

Chinese Badly Treat U.S. Consul For Year

By RUTHERFORD POATE
ARCADE, LAKELAND, YIC
TORY, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Consul General Angus Ward, his wife and 18 others from the Mukden consulate, described his experiences as "hellish."

He said that during the month of November, he and his family were kept in solitary confinement on a diet of bread and water.

When he came on board ship, Ward was dressed in a ragged, tattered, and filthy coat. He appeared haggard and tired. Asked how it felt to be abused an American ally, he smiled and said: "Just imagine how you will feel."

EDMONTON BULLETIN, Monday, Dec. 12, 1949 21

Communists held him in a Stables; the door was closed, except when he was taken to the latrine. He was kept in solitary confinement on a diet of bread and water.

When he came on board ship, Ward was dressed in a ragged, tattered, and filthy coat. He appeared haggard and tired. Asked how it felt to be abused an American ally, he smiled and said: "Just imagine how you will feel."
